

Supreme Court affirms passage of antiterror law

By Marlon Ramos

THE SUPREME COURT has unanimously upheld the passage of the country's antiterror law, throwing out six separate petitions asking that it be declared unconstitutional.

Voting 14-0, the high tribunal argued that since none of the petitioners was charged with violating the Human Security Act (HSA) of 2007, they had no legal personality to question the law.

Marijuana brings some families closer

TO THE RITES of middle-age passage, some American families are adding another—buying marijuana for aging parents.

Bryan, 38, a writer who lives in Illinois, began supplying his parents cannabis about five years ago after he told them about his own marijuana use. When he was growing up, he said, his parents were

RUN FOR PASIG RIVER Aerial photo shows runners in ABS-CBN's "10.10.10 Run for Pasig River" occupying the length of Roxas Boulevard in Pasay City. RIPPLE EFFECT

Thousands run for Pasig River

By Sunshine Lichauco de Leon

WHEN tens of thousands of Filipinos joined the "Run for the Pasig River" yesterday, the passion they showed for cleaning the Pasig River had a ripple effect.

Not only did their presence give the long-neglected waterway a great big hug, but they also hoped to achieve the race organizers' goal of beating the Guinness Book of World Record for the largest footrace in the world.

Before the races, organizers said about 168,000 registered for the event. An auditing firm will determine if the number of actual runners beat the record of 116,000.

The run was part of the global 10/10/10 event known as the "Global Work

Fate of Puno, Robredo known today

By Christine O. Avendaño

PRESIDENT AQUINO yesterday said he would announce today the fate of feuding Local Government Secretary Jesse Robredo and his powerful interior undersecretary, Rico E. Puno, as well as his actions against those responsible for the botched hostage rescue.

Mr. Aquino told reporters that he had summoned Robredo and Puno to a meeting—either last night or early this morning—to thresh out a public squabbling in the Department of the Interior and Local Government (DILG).

He said this was "not proper behavior for members of the Cabinet."

"There are certain goals I had in mind and either it's achieved or I take corrective action," Mr. Aquino told reporters after attending the 10th National Cooperative Summit at Araneta Coliseum in Quezon City.

"Both of them are under fire and they have been under fire for quite some time," he said. "They're only human. And sometimes things were said that perhaps were not taken in the proper context or he wasn't able to convey what he was thinking at that time."

The President said his administration was focused on fixing the country and "how to improve the lot in life of our poorest brethren."

"We have no time for intramurals," he said.

Mr. Aquino conceded that intrigues were "part and parcel of being in government."

Puno tells why Aquino would think twice before letting him go

By Christian V. Esguerra and Marlon Ramos

IT WILL TAKE more than a "jueteng" scandal or a hostage fiasco to sink Rico E. Puno.

The ties that bind the controversial interior undersecretary with President Aquino apparently run deep and go way back that, by his own account, would make any boss think twice before letting him go.

Before the so-called "Samar" and "Balay" groups that are now reportedly jockeying for control within the Aquino administration, there was a small, tightly knit circle of friends surrounding the future President.

This group—a mix of buddies from the business sector—quietly accompanied the younger Aquino in his political sorties, formulated campaign strategies, and watched his back when he first ran for congressman in the 1990s.

PUNO: "Times" group member

"When he started during the campaign for Congress, I didn't see members of his party, neither his classmates, except for two or three," Puno told Inquirer editors and reporters over dinner on Thursday.

"When he ran for senator, I also didn't see the Liberal Party. It was only the two of us and his cousin (accompanying him) in the mountains."

Puno, 54, called his band the "Times" group, referring to Mr. Aquino's house on Times Street in Quezon City.

The group now includes Energy Secretary Jose Rene Almendras, Philippine Amusement and Gaming Corp. chair Cristino Naguiat, and business-

ANALYSIS

ON THE EVE of his 100th day in office, President Aquino was hard put to report his concrete achievements to his "boss"—the Filipino people.

With little to show after basking in the glow of a landslide electoral mandate in the May 2010 polls, the President did the next best and easiest thing: He wrapped up his achievements with glib slogans.

The report made much of the President's intangible achievements in establishing an ethical tone for public officials to prevent them from using the powers of government to enrich themselves and from abusing citizens. He has done this by setting examples.

Mr. Aquino has banned the use of police sirens by officials who defy traffic rules. In his recent US trip, he severely slashed the size of the delegation that accompanied him and reduced the expenses to P25 million.

RP war vets sue US gov't over benefits

SAN FRANCISCO—A lawsuit claims the federal government is discriminating against Filipino World War II veterans by giving them benefits far below what US veterans receive.

"If you are recognized as a war veteran, then you should be accorded benefits like any other war veteran," said lawyer Arnedo Valera, who filed the suit in San Francisco's federal court on Friday on behalf of 27 plaintiffs.

Valera spoke at a rally in front of the federal courthouse which drew dozens of Filipino veterans and women whose husbands served during the war but died before benefits were made available. Some held signs reading "Full Equity Now."

The suit against the US Department of Veterans Affairs claims lump-sum payments of either $9,000 or $15,000 given to the Filipino soldiers are a pittance compared with the benefits that other veterans receive, including pensions and health care.

The United States agreed to pay those sums last year in lieu of pensions it promised the soldiers during the war but reneged on paying.

The suit demands compensation equal to what other veterans receive. It also wants the federal government to make the

Man loses brand new pickup to carjackers

By DJ Yap

ARMED MEN stole a brand new Toyota Hilux from its driver on Saturday, according to a complaint filed with the Manila Police District's anticar theft section.

The carjacking occurred at around 8:30 a.m. near [illegible] Street in Sampaloc, Manila.

Based on the complaint, [illegible] was at the wheel of the gray Hilux 4X4, a 2010 model which had not yet been registered, when three men approached him on foot and at gunpoint ordered him to get out of the vehicle.

Similar incident

The heist was virtually identical to another one which took place also in Manila last month.

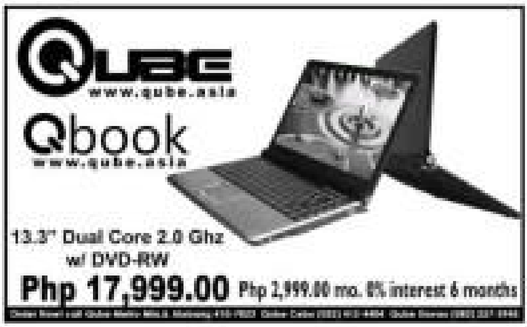

On Sept. 18, three armed men blocked the path of Fernando Q. Sison, who was driving his sibling's three-week-old Mitsubishi Montero on Old Santiago Street near the corner of F. Huertas Street in Sta. Cruz.

Like the Hilux, the Montero was brand new and without license plates. Sison told the police his sibling was still paying for it through a car loan with his employer.

In cases like this, the Manila police said the complainant must establish ownership of the stolen vehicle first before the authorities could launch a formal investigation.

PLDT SME NATION's First Swing in Davao

On the second leg of the Bossing Ako Golf Tour, PLDT SME Nation visited Davao bringing the message of success in business via technology. Sure enough, Davao business owners did not disappoint as they showcased how tech-savvy entrepreneurs can also play an amazing round of golf.

The tournament was held at the Apo Golf & Country Club on September 24, 2010 and the division winners were Martin Misa of Asia Global Inc. for Class A, Richard Sacay of Maxline Enterprises for Class B and Sherwin Bahani of Iron Treasure Trading for Class C. Tiffee Tionko of Bagobo Hotel emerged as the Overall Lowest Gross Champion with a score of 73. Tionko received a designer trophy and a round trip ticket to Manila to be the Mindanao representative for the MVP Pasasalamat Golf Tournament to be held in early November.

All participants were outfitted with Straus golf shirts and brought home Samsonite bags, golf umbrellas and caps. Lucky raffle winners won Callaway Drivers, Fairway Woods and Putters among other prizes.

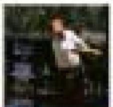

The Davao Bossing Ako Golf Tournament is part of four tourneys to be held nationwide. The next two exciting legs will be in Manila.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

How multitasking KC stays grounded

By Bayani San Diego Jr.

FOR SINGER-ACTRESS KC Concepcion, it all started when she turned 18, seven years ago.

"It dawned on me," she told Inquirer ... "I was being showered with all sorts of endorsements ... and encouragement from people. I felt so blessed."

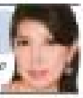

She credits her maternal grandparents for teaching her that giving is good for the spirit

"SHOW" biz is unpredictable and ... says KC.
